Kevin Goldston is the Director of Venture Operations for Northwell Health. He spends the majority of his time operationalizing new, innovative healthcare concepts within Northwell; standing up new ventures; promoting value enhancing activities for portfolio companies; and driving overall portfolio growth. In his prior role, Kevin lead operations for Northwell Ventures and facilitated its growth from 5 to more than 20 employees. He played a vital role in the development of the department from its infancy including setting up the structure for external venture investments and the structuring and negotiation of deals.

Prior to Northwell Ventures, Kevin spent more than 3 years in an operational role in Northwell Health's Office of the Chief Nurse Executive where he spent most of his time assisting with, and coordinating, strategic nursing initiatives. Such initiatives included a multi-million dollar project to develop centralized telemetry covering multiple hospitals. Kevin holds a degree in Economics from Binghamton University and has an MBA (with a concentration in Health Services Management) from Hofstra University.
